

Our Student Charter

Together we can create and enjoy a positive learning culture at the circus that prides itself on hard work, creative thinking and community spirit. To achieve this we need to consider the following:

CHALLENGE YOURSELF

Circus is hard and challenging yet should always be rewarding. Try new things. It is your ability to stretch your comfort zone that is valuable and it is not important if you are not fantastic at everything you try.

It is OK to be afraid, sometimes it is useful.

FOCUS

Arrive prepared, willing and ready to contribute to your learning and creativity. Always work to the highest standards with focus and motivation in four key areas – creative; physical; academic; social.

Focus 100% when on the training floor or in the classroom.

COMMUNICATE

- Talk to your trainers, your teachers and your friends - they will listen
- Listen to your trainers, your teachers and your friends – give them your attention
- Acknowledge and take responsibility for your mistakes, sometimes a mistake can be a learning opportunity.

RESPECT

- Yourself - you are a valued part of a diverse circus community. Celebrate the things that make you different from others.
- Others around you - this circus community is a shared learning environment. Play your part in the community and be a positive role model.
- Your environment - look after the space you inhabit so that it remains an enjoyable place to come to and work in.
- Your art form – speak positively about our circus, our school and each other. Use social media respectfully. Ask yourself, is this helpful? Is it harmful? Would I say this in person?

BE YOUR BEST

Get the most out of your body and mind by maintaining a healthy lifestyle that is healthy eating, healthy sleeping and healthy thinking. Look after yourselves and each other.

BE KIND

Be inclusive and generous in all school, training or social activities. It is our collective responsibility to make our circus a great place to be and to make all members of our community feel valued.

FOSTER CURIOSITY

Your curiosity and love of learning should extend beyond circus. Value your academic studies as part of growing into an artist that can confidently research, analyse and be curious about the world.

You will emerge from this school into a world that can be shaped by you. The future you will inhabit and create will reflect your ideas, your aspirations and your artistry. Be playful and curious, ambitious and humble.
